

All in the tone

I can speak and be always correct
But yet I can fail to connect
It won't be appealing if said without feeling
All I try to achieve will be wrecked

Remember it's all in the tone
Like a sword piercing down to the bone
When the words and the phrases have gone
Remember it's all in the tone

I can write and be truly inspired; imagination is fired
But it won't mean a thing if the truth cannot sing
Some passion is what is required

Remember it's all in the tone
Like a sword piercing down to the bone
When the words and the phrases have gone
Remember it's all in the tone

I can say what I fervently mean, describing all that I've seen
But I'll be wasting my time if just reading the lines
Not looking at what's in between

Remember it's all in the tone
Like a sword piercing down to the bone
When the words and the phrases have gone
Remember it's all in the tone

I can speak and be always correct
But yet I can fail to connect
It won't be appealing if said without feeling
All I try to achieve will be wrecked
